The Sense of Security

Unless he possesses a sense of complete security a man can neither put forth his best efforts nor fulfil his highest destiny in life.

The sense of security is best achieved by placing his own future beyond the risk of misadventure, and by placing those who would suffer by his death beyond the risk of want.

This state of mental independence can be attained in an ideal way by taking out a Policy of Assurance... We can offer you the choice of a range of contracts which cover practically, every circumstance and contingency in life.

Dr. Roberts Speaks at Student Service.

CHOICE OF GODS.

Audience Impressed by Concrete Facts.

The second University Church Service of the session was held yesterday in the hall-room of the Union. These services appear to be quite popular with the students and if their quality is kept up they should continue to attract a great deal of undergraduate interest. Yesterday's service was well presented over by Rev. Principal Wexford, while Sir Arthur Currie read the lesson which was the Old Testament story of the struggle between Eliza and the prophets of Baal.

Taking as his title "The Choice of Gods" Dr. Roberts of the American Presbyterian Church presented an excellent sermon.

At the time of the text, two Gods were fighting for supremacy. Baal, the god of moral laxity and Jereval the god of spiritual happiness. The people were hesitating between the two gods, but Baal was slowly gaining in popularity. At the present time civilization is in the same position--she is hesitating in her choice of Gods. Yet most people are so occupied with other things that they don't even realize that there is anything to choose between. Being so engrossed in themselves they lead a sort of aimless and aimless moral life.

Many people believe there is a god, but by the life they lead, plainly show that God does not exist in them. It is not what a person thinks, but what one does, that counts. In fact the profession of faith is in the life one leads.

Civilization is slowly losing her hold on the slippery slope which she is essaying to climb. Slowly she is sinking to the dark and ominous future, into a dark chasm where barbarism lurks, ready to strangle her with ignorance and pestilence. Nations have seen this fast and are trying to save the situation by conferences and by international comprehension, but the only way to save the situation is by a complete revival, a reversion of thought, by a change of one's values from material to spiritual. There must be a complete religious revival, narrowness must be overcome, and in-

PREPARATIONS FOR THE MEDICO DANCE

Tickets Available for Undergrads on Tuesday.

The decorating of the New Medical Building in preparation for the Medical Dance next Friday night was begun by the committee on Saturday. The color scheme for the ball-room includes royal purple and orchid, and all possible advantage will be taken of the stately height of the room, in producing the most impressive effect.

Colored shades for over one hundred lights are being prepared, and the museum will be illuminated by varied colored lights in subdued tones. Deep green will be used in the reception rooms to contrast with the white marble.

No effort or expense will be spared in the preparation of this dance, and no undergrad in medicine can afford to miss the pleasure of this leading social event. It will be noted that the price of tickets has been kept down to the minimum and is a very reasonable cost for an elaborate evening of this kind.

The committee has decided that tickets will be available for medical undergraduates up to noon on Tuesday, February 28th, after which they will be sold to recent graduates in medicine, or undergraduates in other faculties, and a large number of the latter have signified a wish to attend if possible.

Order of Dances will be:--

- 1.—Fox Trot.
- 2.—Fox Trot.
- 3.—Fox Trot.
- 4.—One Step.
- 5.—Fox Trot.
- 6.—Fox Trot.
- 7.—Fox Trot.

- 2nd Extra.
- 9.—One Step.

FIRST PLACE IN CARNIVAL TO VISITORS

Dartmouth, 31; McGill, 22; Middlebury, 10.

SKI SOMERSAULTS.

Green and White Took Firsts in Ski Dash, Ski Obstacle Race, and Relay.

In a field of competitors that caused every man to do the very best that was in him Dartmouth came out in the lead by a comfortable margin in the Saturdays carnival meet on the old campus.

McGill received second place after vainly trying to outdo their opponents. Middlebury although putting up a splendid fight, gaining several seconds and thirds were third in the last.

The first race was a Ski dash and proved to be very interesting being closely contested throughout. This race was run off in two heats owing to the large number of entries. The first three of both heats entered in the final heat. Dartmouth excelled themselves here taking both first and second place. McGill proved a close third. In the first heat Carlton of Dartmouth came in first with Forbush second and Lane 3rd. The winners of the second heat were Panter first, Foss second and Danfell third. In the final heat Carlton and Bowler of Dartmouth received first and second place respectively with Foss of McGill coming in third. The course was by no means ideal and individual effort on the part of every man accounted for the splendid showing.

A snowshoe dash followed the ski dash and as in the case of the first race two heats had to take place with a final heat for the first winners, this also being due to the large number that entered. Robinson, Cole and Blake were the respective winners in the first heat with Anderson, Harvey and Forbush winners in the second heat. The final heat brought McGill to the front with Anderson leading followed closely by Robinson and Harvey of Middlebury. Good time was made in this race the men showing splendid form.

In the obstacle race skill on the part of the men in handling themselves on skis was a dominating factor. The course mapped out was across both rinks the latter being fenced around and from these across the campus, underbushes and then up an incline to the winning point. Perkins of Dartmouth was an easy winner, with Leslie of McGill coming in second. Both men showed ability in this form of racing and made things interesting. To the spectators this race was interesting from the point of view of the antics of many of the men entered and caused many hearty laughs.

The final race was a relay with the respective teams lining up as follows: Dartmouth was represented by 1 Perkins; 2 Daniell; 3 Bowler; 4 Carlton. Middlebury; 1 Cole; 2 Harvey; 3 Robinson; 4 Hollquest, McGill: 1 Glen; 2 Lane; 3 Foss; 4 Whittall. Dartmouth proved the winner with McGill second and Middlebury third. The first and second places were closely contested Middlebury falling behind owing to a late start.

The outstanding men on the field were Carlton and Bowler of Dartmouth and Anderson of McGill. Carlton is recognized as one of the best skiers in the intercollegiate realm. His work here was all the more creditable owing to his ankle being in bad condition as a result of his jumping in the Q. S. J. A remarkable feat of turning a somersault while in the air is a trick accomplished by both Carlton and Bowler. Anderson of McGill although a newcomer in snowshoe racing is showing rare form and has splendid style. His very fine showing in the races was pleas-

INTERMEDIATES 'A' PLAY HIGHLANDERS

McGill Win by Large Margin—Score 54—15.

On Saturday afternoon the Intermediate A Basketball team played the Highlanders in their Armory in Bleury St and rather put it over them by running up a score something like 54-15. The Highlanders played hard but the McGill Five were too much for them. The playing was very good and interesting throughout. One of the features of the game was the few penalties made. The first period ended with a score of 27-8. Out of the 54 points made by McGill Scharie made 22, James 4, Brown 14, Hilton 8, and Schwartzman 4. Scharie and Brown upheld the team in a remarkable way and did themselves credit to many brilliant plays. The line was as follows:

McGill	Highlanders
James	R. Forwards
Scharie	L. Forward
Brown	Centre
Schwartzman	Cline

GIRLS LOSE IN HOCKEY TO VARSITY

Great Enthusiasm Aroused Over Hockey Game.

SCORE 4—0.

Lorna Kerr, McGill "Goalie," Played a Most Brilliant Game.

After a splendid game, the outstanding feature of which was the wonderful play of the McGill goalkeeper, Lorna Kerr, the Varsity girls defeated McGill at the Toronto Arena last Friday afternoon by a score of 4—0.

Varsity scored early in the first period. M. Stanley, the Varsity centre, got the puck and by a quick rush up the ice made the score 1—0 for Varsity. Florence Gardner made a couple of very good rushes, but was unable to score for McGill. Phyllis Powell, of McGill, also played an outstanding game, but before the period closed, Gertrude Wallis, one of Varsity's best players, scored for her side, and the period came to an end after many splendid saves had been made by Lorna Kerr, the McGill "goalie." First period score 2—0 for Varsity.

Play was much faster in the second period. Florence Gardner got the puck as soon as the whistle was blown, and took it right down to the

R.V.C. DEFEATED QUEENS BY 21-13

Very Good Basketball Played at Hart House.

On Friday evening in the Hart House gymnasium the McGill and Queens Basketball teams played the second round of the Intercollegiate Basketball tournament. McGill, won 21-13.

This game showed much better basketball than the game of the previous evening. Miss Montgomery's shooting for Queens was especially noticeable. For the McGill people, team work won the game. The work of the jumping centre, Claire Fraser was very good. Zerada Slack played a remarkably steady defence game.

At half-time the score was 7 to 6 in favour of Queens but our forwards grew more accustomed to the baskets in the second half, and began to pile up the score for "Old McGill," making it 21-13 for McGill.

The line-up was as follows:

Queens	Forwards	McGill
G. Montgomery	M. Leggett
12.—Lockhart	J. Spier
	Defence
Abernethy	Z. Slack
Evanson	E. Schlackman
	Centre (Jumping)

"BY THEIR FRUITS"

In coming to a university a student is clamoured at on all sides to do this, that and the other. The professors, in welcoming addresses, express their side of the story, the campus leaders theirs. He is told that he should be of such a way of thinking, or of such another, so that he is apt to be lost in a bewildering babel of advice good and bad, apt to stumble in a labyrinth of counsels wise and unsound. What is he to do in the midst of all such conflicting thoughts? To what or to whom is he to look for guidance along the tangled paths of undergraduate life? Who are those best fitted to direct his faltering steps whenever he stands hesitatingly at the cross-road? Whom is he to trust and whom fear? What is to be his criterion of judgment?

The old proverb, "Actions speak louder than words," together with the different rendering of it given in epigrammatic form by Dr. Roberts at the University Service yesterday, "Men's opinions are what they talk about, their beliefs are what they live by," give the most comprehensible and complete answers to the foregoing questions. We are to look to those that act and act wisely not to such as sit about and talk of deeds they would do; and we are to judge men by their acts and not by their expressions of opinion or dogma.

What great counsel is implied in these two pithy sentences. They are a philosophy of life in themselves. They could be expounded and expatiated upon world without end. They contain great truths for the knowledge-seeking university student. They cry out to him with loud voice: "Look to him for guidance who acts in the way of which you approve, no matter what profession he may make of his opinions; for these latter may only serve to cover with a rugged exterior a heart of gold, a soul of compassion, a man worthy to stand with kings. And leave to one side, avoid as though plague-infected, the man who in smiling smugness would seek to control your actions and life with fair words, yet lives not as he preaches. Like him who appreciates not music his affections are as dark as Erebus."

"By their fruits ye shall know them," says the gospel. Men are to be judged by the standard of their works and earnest endeavour alone, not by their mouthed vapourings about high ideals and noble purpose. If a man has strong and good convictions and is not ashamed to stand by them, challenging the world, then follow him, for he will some day be the man of the hour.

CHOOSE WISELY, MCGILL!

Nomination day is passed and the students of McGill, by the number of the men put forward to contest the various executive offices around the university, have proved quite conclusively that their interest in university things in general is not dead, but only sleeping. It is true, and perhaps unfortunate, that the two most important positions in the group went without a struggle. But none feel this more keenly than do those upon whom the choice fell and the support accorded them should be none the less cordial and whole-hearted on that account. As to how the elections will go it is impossible to prophesy. All of the nominees are capable men, well able to fill the positions for which they have been put forward. It is the duty of the students at large to see that the right men are placed in the right offices.

THE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

The return of the basketball championship to McGill can be contemplated with a certain amount of pride. Superiority in basketball had come to be an accepted fact as far as Toronto was concerned, just as McGill looks to track as a championship that is due to remain here.

McGill has bitterly contested the right of Toronto to hold the championship for several successive seasons, even going to the extent of making a play-off necessary, but our players could not take away the honours from their adversaries. Now that the championship has come to Montreal once again, it is to be hoped that its stay here will be of a permanent nature, and not merely a temporary visit.

GOOD WORK!

Another week-end crammed with sporting events of all kinds has come and gone. During the last two days of the past week McGill engaged in no less than six intercollegiate contests, three of them being between the co-eds of the Big Three. The Red and White just broke even, having three victories and three defeats to her credit. The senior hockey and basketball registered well-deserved victories over Queens, while the women's basketball team also defeated the representatives of the Tri-colour. The Ski Club men, however, were unable to avenge their set-back of two weeks previous, and again fell before their rivals of the Green and White of Dartmouth, while the co-eds lost in both their contests with Varsity.

Especial mention must be made of the efforts made by the women in intercollegiate sport. Although possessed of a relatively small registration, the women at R.V.C. and M.S.P.E. were able to put up two really good teams, that were only forced to give in to greater skill and speed after hard struggles. The splendid sportsmanship displayed by them and the excellent exhibitions of basketball which they rendered earned them the admiration of all the spectators of their efforts. They were a credit to McGill and showed themselves imbued with McGill's tradition of fighting to the last ditch, playing hard to win, yet the first to bestow the merited praise upon their victors. Intercollegiate contests of this kind can only serve to strengthen the close bonds of rivalry existing between the three great universities of Central Canada.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculty will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the news office—that they write upon the INSIDE of the paper ONLY.

No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for publication.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:
The relations between McGill University and the Pulp and Paper Industry have aroused of late, considerable interest both in College circles and outside.

Many students have secured employment in the mills of the industry during the past few summers, and a considerable number secured permanent occupations.

However as yet, there is no definite connecting link between the University and the Industry. It has been suggested that a Society be formed of those interested, so that the link might be at least established and an idea obtained of just how large the interest is.

There is a notice in another column of this edition setting a time and place for the initial meeting.

The Society would not be limited to any one Faculty, practically all are concerned, as the scope of positions offered by the Pulp and Paper Industry is very wide.

A few chief aims of the Society have been suggested. 1.—Co-operation with the Pulp and Paper Association in order to secure employment for its members during the summer.

2.—Collaboration with the Forest Products Laboratories so that those who desire may study the Paper Industry and its problems.

3.—The propagation of the opportunities in, and advantages of the Industry, especially among the junior years so that they may be attracted to it.

4.—The procuring of speakers, from among men prominent in the business, to give an idea of just what the Industry requires of men entering it.

The above suggestions may be of use as a basis of operation, and it is hoped a good representation will be out next Friday at 5.15 p.m.

Thanking you etc,
Yours truly,
William C. Munro.

"What is your definition of the word 'jeopardized'?" asked the examiner. The candidate's brow wrinkled. "Which?" "Which?" he inquired. "What do you understand the word 'jeopardized' to mean?" For just one half-minute he hesitated. Then he answered sonorously: "In reply to your question I would state that that would refer to any act committed by a jeopord."

A well-known rector in South London was visiting one of his poorer parishioners, an old woman afflicted with deafness. She expressed to the Rector her great regret at not being able to hear his sermons.

Desiring to be sympathetic and to say something consoling he replied with unnecessary self-deprecation "You don't miss much."

"So they tell me" was the disconcerting reply of the woman.

"No, suh, but he kicks sometimes whar I se jes been."

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Sunday, Feb. 26th. (Lord's Day.) Up pretty betimes, which I found somewhat of a trouble after by watching of the skimen yesterday in their crawling on their bellies under deal tables set upon the campus as an obstacle to their course. So dressed in great care and to the church affair given again in the Union this day, which thing I owed in some sort as a duty to the Theologians for their procuring of my remission at the time of the examinations. At length after a long and wearisome application, done in the new mode after the fashion of a merchant's catalogue, came we to the sermonizing, and very pleasantly surprised I was to find that the parson fellow spoke such a deal of sound sense and truth, for in sooth I had too often found such discourses to be naught but an admixture of most tedious vapourings. So home and to partake of a hearty dinner in the English fashion with a deal of good mulled ale, feeling the while mightily pleased with myself at the due performance of my religious devotions.

Patient Parent: "Well, child, what on earth's the matter now?" Young Hopeful (who has been bathing with his bigger brother): "Willie dropped the towel in the water and he's dried me wetter than I was before."

"Speaking of bad falls," remarked Jones. "I fell out of a window once, and the sensation was simply awful. I really think that I thought of every mean act I had ever committed."

"Humph!" growled Thompson. "You must have fallen an awful distance."

"Late for parade again, O'Malley?" snorted the irate captain. "How do you account for this persistent tardiness?"
" 'Tis inherited, sir," answered Private O'Malley. "My father was the late Michael O'Malley."

McGILL TEAM BRINGS HOME BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

First Period — Crain and Manson Star for McGill, the Defence Man Getting Five Baskets — Queens Fought Hard all the Way and Kept the End in Doubt.

On Saturday afternoon the McGill basketball team defeated Queens in a close, hard-fought game by the score of 36-32, thus winning the intercollegiate basketball championship of 1921-22.

McGill clearly outclassed their opponents in the first period, but in the second half Queens came back strong and fighting hard all the way kept the final outcome of the game in suspense until the last few minutes of play.

The entire McGill team displayed some wonderful combination and smooth team work, during the first period, and owing to this and their superior shooting ability they ran up a four point lead in the first half that won them the game. The last half started at a fast clip with Queens having the edge in the play through their improved combination and shooting. As the game progressed, with first McGill then Queens adding a few points to their respective scores, and with never more than three or four points separating them, play became rougher and rougher, many foul shots were handed out and the excitement became so intense that the Queens rooters were almost frantic in their efforts to cheer the home team on to victory. A beautiful one hand shot by Little made a win for McGill almost certain, and when Crain repeated a few moments later with a shot that looped through the air and dropped clean through the iron-rimmed basket, with sixty seconds to go, the few McGill supporters sat back in their chairs and heaved a great sigh of relief. Queens tried desperately to even matters up, but the McGill line held, and their efforts were futile.

It was a fighting game from start to finish. One team was fighting for the chance of playing off for the championship. McGill played better basketball in the first period and held the scoring to a tie in the last period. They earned their win, and the score just about indicates the difference between the teams.

Crain played a wonderful game for McGill. Time and again he broke away down the floor for a spectacular rush, and scored no less than five baskets, the last one of which practically sounded the death knell to Queens hopes for the intercollegiate basketball title.

Manson gave a splendid account of himself, and, especially in the second half, shot penalty baskets with deadly accuracy, netting twelve points on foul shots, and making a grand total of eighteen points for the Red and White. In fact the whole McGill team played with a dash and a vigor that bespoke a high degree of training.

Jones, the Queens centre, played a splendid game, and was their sure shot in penalty baskets. Lewis and Ellis put up a good defence, and scored six points between them.

In the first few minutes of play Crain got the ball on a pass from the Law.

side lines, and drew first blood for McGill. Queens rained long shots in the McGill basket, but could not score. Lewis came up the floor from the defence, and dropped the ball through for Queens first tally. Manson quickly followed suit on a nice piece of combination with Mendelsohn, and Laishley. Manson and Jones each counted two penalty shots in quick succession. Laishley scored, but as the whistle had blown it was not counted. Manson got the ball beneath the basket and twirled it in for another. Queens checked heavy, and Manson took another free shot. Mendelsohn scored a nice basket soon after. Lewis was left uncovered beneath the basket and scored. Crain, after one of his bewildering rushes down the floor, received the ball on a pass and counted another for McGill. Amaron went on for Laishley. Manson scored for Queens. McGill checked hard and Jones scored twice, on free shots. Period ended — McGill, 18; Queens, 14.

The second period started at a fast clip, and Crain missed the basket narrowly. Manson scored, but the whistle had blown. Ellis and Lewis were left uncovered beneath the basket, and both scored in rapid succession. Crain took the pass from Manson, and dropped the ball through. Queens displayed much better combination and team work at this stage of the game. Jones counted another for Queens. Mendelsohn got the ball near centre and tallied for McGill. Following some nice passing with Laishley and Manson, Crain found the basket again. Manson then took three free shots one after the other and made them all count. Lewis got the ball from a jump-off at centre and scored a beautiful long shot. McGill had some terrible luck shooting. Laishley twisted his ankle, and Mendelsohn was checked heavily and dined. They were replaced by Little and Amaron. Queens rushed the McGill basket, but the ball refused to fall through. Little dropped a neat one-hand shot through. Excitement was intense, with only a few minutes to go. Crain ran down the floor and dropped the ball through for the last score of the game.

McGill Girls Beaten by 43-32 Score.

Saturday afternoon saw the crucial game, McGill vs. Varsity, the result being 42-32 in favour of Varsity. This game was one of the finest exhibitions of women's basketball ever witnessed.

Varsity's combination play followed up by the remarkable shooting of Misses Burridge and Trapp, merits the highest praise. Too much cannot be said of the work of their jumping centre "Bones" Taylor.

Our girls played their game of the season. Janie Spier's shooting was at top-form, her one handed free shot causing much admiration. Marjorie Leggett too brought forth applause by one of her spectacular field shots.

Zerada Slack and Ella Schlackman played a brilliant defense game. Our centres could not have played better. Dorothy Russell's passing and catching were one of the finest features of the game. Our jumping centre, Clarice Fraser again played a steady, sure and hard game.

Perhaps the finest thing one could say about the R. V. C. Basketball team is the following-mentioned in the re-to the "Basketball Toast" by a Queens' Representative. We thank the McGill Girls for their splendid exhibition of playing a game for the sake of the game and better sportsmanship has never been seen."

WHIFFLETREE TO MEET FATE ON THURSDAY

Union Smoker Called Off.

SPECIAL WIRE.

Hot Time in Sim's Corner Over Week-end.

The Daily wire to Sims Corners was again busy yesterday, and a great deal of important news was flashed over the line.

The main thing that transpired was that the Board would not be able to come up to Montreal on Wednesday owing to an accident on the Railway. However it was stated that the Examiners would arrive on Thursday, March 2nd instead.

It appears that the Railway recently discharged one of their workmen named Chienchaud for breach of rules. "This man left the employ of the company threatening to revenge himself on all the directors and everybody else. He went into the Quick Lunch business in competition with the local restaurant, and some people thought that he was settling down. However the wiser ones feared that it was but the calm before the storm. The next thing that happened was a bad wreck on the Sims Corners branch of the Railway. A careful examination of the scene of the wreck revealed traces of what had once been a Weiner Schnitzel, and it is suspected by most people in positions of authority that this was the direct cause of the accident. Chienchaud has not yet been apprehended, however his remaining Weiners have been confiscated by order of the court and have been judicially deposited in the Sims Corners Precinct Trust Company's Safety Deposit Vaults until life in them is extinct.

As an immediate result of this accident the Sims Corners division of the railroad has been thrown into confusion, and it will be impossible to repair the track before Wednesday night. This means of course that the examiners will not arrive until Wednesday night.

While on the face of matters it seems as if this was the only cause there is however a stronger motive behind the postponement. The Secretary of the Board intimated that he had received a letter of protest from Mr. Si Whiffletree and Patrick O'S. McGillicuddy, both aspirants for honours in the Association, stating that up here that Wednesday was Ash Wednesday even if it wasn't in Sims Corners. The Secretary, having heard of the renowned Whiffletree wallop and considering that discretion was perhaps the better part of value, ordered the change of date.

Of course the Union Smoker which was to have taken place on Thursday night, has been put off in honour of the great event, and perhaps for other good and sufficient reasons; but those who were not thinking of going to it, and also those who were not, should or must come to the Whiffletree Bar Examination or bring a verbal excuse in writing signed in the presence of two janitors and duly stamped and sealed.

The procedure will be the same as for Wednesday night. Dress suits need not be worn, but ties and boots are not excused.

INTERMEDIATES DEFEAT LACHINE

McGill and Vics. Now Tie For First Place.

In a well contested game at the Victoria Rink on Saturday the McGill Intermediates won from the Lachine outfit to the tune of three goals to one. The game was not a brilliant one, although at times excellent hockey was furnished the spectators. The Red and White men proved themselves superior to their opponents in combination and passing, proving the value of coach Shaughnessy's teachings. The first period was uninteresting until Gammel of McGill scored. This rather irritated the Lachine men who retaliated three minutes later McQuestion being the lucky one.

But the Collegians were determined to keep the lead and made great efforts to get past Marsden, the Lachine goater. McNaughton was the only successful one in doing this. Period ended 2-1 (McGill.)

In the last period, the only goal was scored by Kelly of McGill. The Lachine players, seeming to realize the futility of their efforts, played only half-heartedly for the remainder of the game.

This win for McGill necessitates a play-off between McGill and Victorias for first place.

The line-up was as follows:

McGill Lachine Goal Morin. Marsden Defence Davis. Clemens MacNaughton. Myers o'Fwards Gammel. F. Clemens Kelly. McQuestion Subs. Stevens. Ross Fredericks.

MEDS. HEARD ADDRESS BY PROF. EWING

Subject, "The Importance of Pathological Anatomy."

A. O. A. FRATERNITY

Large Crowd Present Appreciated the Efforts of the Cornell Professor.

On Saturday night, in the New Medical Building, the first annual open meeting of the Alpha Omega Alpha honorary medical fraternity was held, the speech delivered by Professor Ewing of Cornell University, on "The Importance of Pathological Anatomy."

At 9 o'clock the assembly hall was well filled by the members of the fraternity and many undergraduates and recent graduates in medicine, as well as a large number of the university staff. The speaker was introduced in a very fitting manner by Professor Oertel, Director of the Department of Pathology in the McGill Medical faculty and councillor of the A. O. A.

Professor Ewing first outlined the various methods for investigating disease processes in the human body, and dealt especially with Modern technical and laboratory methods, for which so much is claimed in the field of diagnosis.

The speaker then showed, that while specialized work in physics, chemistry, serology, roentgenology, etc., is useful and progressive, yet it does by no means replace gross and microscopic pathology, and in fact too great reliance on mechanical laboratory observations may lead to disaster. The professor here reviewed several experiences which seemed to indicate that the modern training of medical students may lead to habits of reliance on lab. findings at the neglect of observable clinical facts, and dangerous or fatal results will naturally follow.

While this is true of a knowledge of gross pathology it is even more certain when applied to microscopic work, in which the intelligence and imagination of a trained observer is brought to bear on the picture of cellular structure.

It should be remembered by all medical men, and held as an axiom, that at present the processes of life are incapable of explanation in terms of chemistry and physics, and the safest road to successful diagnosis and treatment is a thorough knowledge of the morphological processes of disease, and the external effects of these processes which he may observe and use.

The prolonged applause which marked the closing of the address showed the keen appreciation of the audience, and a hearty vote of thanks to Professor Ewing was moved by Dr. Finley, Dean of the Faculty, and ably seconded by Professor Armstrong of the department of Surgery.

The meeting then adjourned to the museum, where a special display of specimens had been set up, in recognition of Professor Ewing's excellent work on behalf of Medical Museum in America. Excellent refreshments were enjoyed, and as many as possible were given an opportunity of meeting Professor Ewing.

ing to watch. Middlebury although failing to come up to her opponents in points are to be congratulated upon the splendid manner in which they attempted the different events several seconds and thirds falling to their lot.

Undoubtedly the most interesting event of the meet was the ski jumping on Saturday afternoon featuring a tandem somersault by Bishop and Bowler of Dartmouth. These two shot over the jump side by side, turned over in mid-air simultaneously, whirling the heavy skis through a complete circle, and landed on their feet sixty or seventy feet down the slope.

In the open jumping Knowlton, M. Ski C. came first followed by Sherrard McGill; P. Miller, M. Ski C. Leslie McGill; Frost of Dartmouth; Bowler, Dartmouth, Finlay of M. Ski C. and Maxwell, Dartmouth tied for seventh place; than Daniel, Dartmouth; Sproule, M. Ski C.

As Sherrard was not entered in the McGill team, Leslie took first place in the inter-college competition; Frost and Bowler, both from Dartmouth took second and third. Frost, who won the jumping competition at the Dartmouth Carnival made the longest jump of the afternoon, 94 feet, and also the best standing jump, 80 feet. Frost made the greatest distances in the open competition, followed by Gravel of McGill, but these two men were overtaken by Sherrard and Leslie whose excellent style brought up their total points. Knowlton and Sherrard were the only men to make the three jumps without a fall.

"Art" Walsh, one of the judges, was heard to remark that Crosby of Williams was the "prettiest" jumper there. Leslie strained a ligament in his leg on the last jump and will, unfortunately be laid up for several days. Another accident was narrowly averted when a small black spaniel planted itself in the track just behind the take-off when Gravel was jumping. His ski hit the dog but luckily he did not swerve far off the track.

ternational brotherhood will have to be fostered. The history of a progressive nation is punctuated with these revivals, the life of a saint, in fact, is one of perseverance and new beginnings.

Students must get together and practice this brotherhood, and there is no time like the present. Many great movements have been started by student energy. The Methodist movement owes its start to student initiative. Students all over the world are uniting, in Britain, in the United States and many other countries. The students of today, are the men of tomorrow, the hope of civilization rests in their hands. By uniting, they have plenty to do and nothing to lose, they have the house of God to build to allegiance to swear to their God. They must do this for the sake of the world and generations yet unknown. Canadian students must get together and, maybe through God set Canada ablaze for now and for evermore.

At those words the sermon ended the audience being very impressed by the convincing facts of Dr. Roberts.

"Be mine," he cried, in a voice filled with anguish, "if you refuse me I shall die." But the harmless girl refused him. That was sixty years ago. Yesterday he died.

enemy's goal, but here she was stopped by M. Fenwick, of Varsity, who, by very good skating, got past the defence and made the score 3-0 for Varsity. This was the only goal scored by Varsity this period, although the shooting came thick and fast. Lorna Kerr, in the McGill goal, was positively wonderful, stopping what seemed certain shots. Phyllis Powell again starred in this period, and was enthusiastically clapped by the audience when going off for a few minutes' well-earned rest. Second period score 3-0 for Varsity.

Despite the fact that Varsity scored again at the beginning of the third period, McGill played a good fighting game. V. Foley and P. Powell played outstanding games, and to-gether with Florence Gardner, did their level best to score for McGill. The play was mostly down at the McGill goal, but our defence put up a valiant front, while Lorna Kerr, the mainstay of the whole team, undoubtedly had the admiration of the entire audience by her brilliant saves, which kept the score from mounting up. Thus the game ended with a score of 4-0 for Varsity.

To the many spectators present this hockey match was an "eye opener" in the world of girls' athletics. Both teams showed splendid spirit. Although the McGill team was weak in shooting, and had rather a lack of combination, as individuals they put up a very good game, playing splendidly. Among the crowd of spectators was Havargal, cheering enthusiastically for McGill. This sporting spirit was greatly appreciated by the street to meet it.

WHAT IS A FLAPPER?

What is a flapper? That is the question. "A girl who believes prsonality is physical, who considers all advice abstract, who loves continual change and who converses in generalities," says Mary Ida Bentley, speaking of the girls at the University of California. "And being a flapper is not a question of age, but of outlook on life," adds Eleanor Richardson, social worker, speaking of the girls at the University of Chicago. "The Daily Maroon characterizes her thus: "A flapper is a girl who parades around the campus bareheaded, wearing a huge fur coat and upbuckled galoshes. She specializes in lines and tea hounds. In most respects she is the 1923 model, with streamline body and a sporty carriage with sixty miles an hour guaranteed."
